The Mustang

George Mason Junior-Senior High School
Falls Church
Virginia

Prologue

The pages of this book relate our high school days to the spirit and customs of the age of chivalry and knighthood. Like those gallant warriors who went on noble quests to seek adventure, redress wrongs and seek the Holy Grail or absolute perfection, we also struggle for these few short years in the quest of knowledge which, though never perfectly attained, remains our high ambition. We now offer to those on their first and those on their last quest for knowledge; to those who guide and direct our challenging ventures; to those who make possible these ventures—this, the 1960 Mustang.

One Who Has Helped Make

The year 1949 was a year of significance to the citizens of Falls Church—a new city was chartered, a new school was begun. The decade just passed has been one of growth and progress for the city and for its school system. The foundation of a splendid educational system was laid upon which greater accomplishments could be realized.

Much of the credit for the progress in the building of a superior educational system should be given to Irvin H. Schmitt, Division Superintendent. His is an enviable record of achievement. Since coming to Falls Church in 1949, his efforts have been untiring in the shaping, molding, building of a school system based on sound educational philosophy, high ideals and practical management.

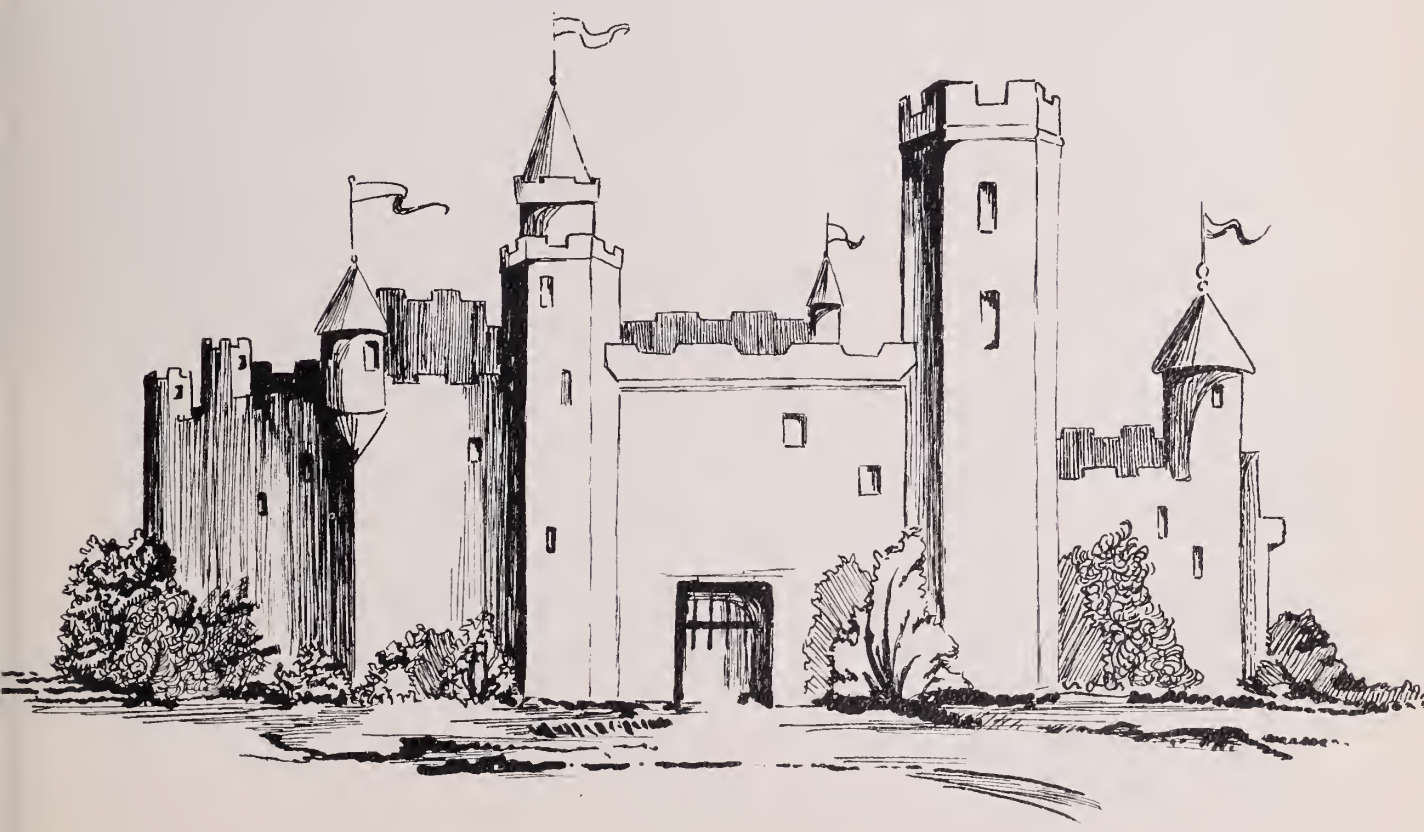
Under Mr. Schmitt's guidance the George Mason High School and the Mount Daniel Elementary School were built; the Thomas Jefferson Elementary School was acquired from Fairfax County and enlarged; and the Madison Elementary School received extensive alterations.

The Mustang Staff believes that no yearbook should be dedicated to an individual unless that individual has an outstanding record of accomplishment. We feel that such recognition of Mr. Schmitt is long overdue. His quest for better educational opportunities for us has been an inspiration to us all. It is with pride that we dedicate this, the 1960 Mustang, to MR. IRVIN H. SCHMITT.

This Quest Possible

The Teachers Honor Mr. Schmitt

In behalf of the Falls Church Education Association, Mr. Earl Phillips presents Mr. Schmitt with a watch in recognition of ten years of outstanding service in the city school system.



They Make The Quest Possible

The School Board

First row: Mrs. Eleanor S. Justusson, Clerk of the Board; Mr. Joseph Le Moine, Chairman of the Board; Mrs. Jane Dexter; Mr. Irvin H. Schmitt,Superintendent of the city schools.

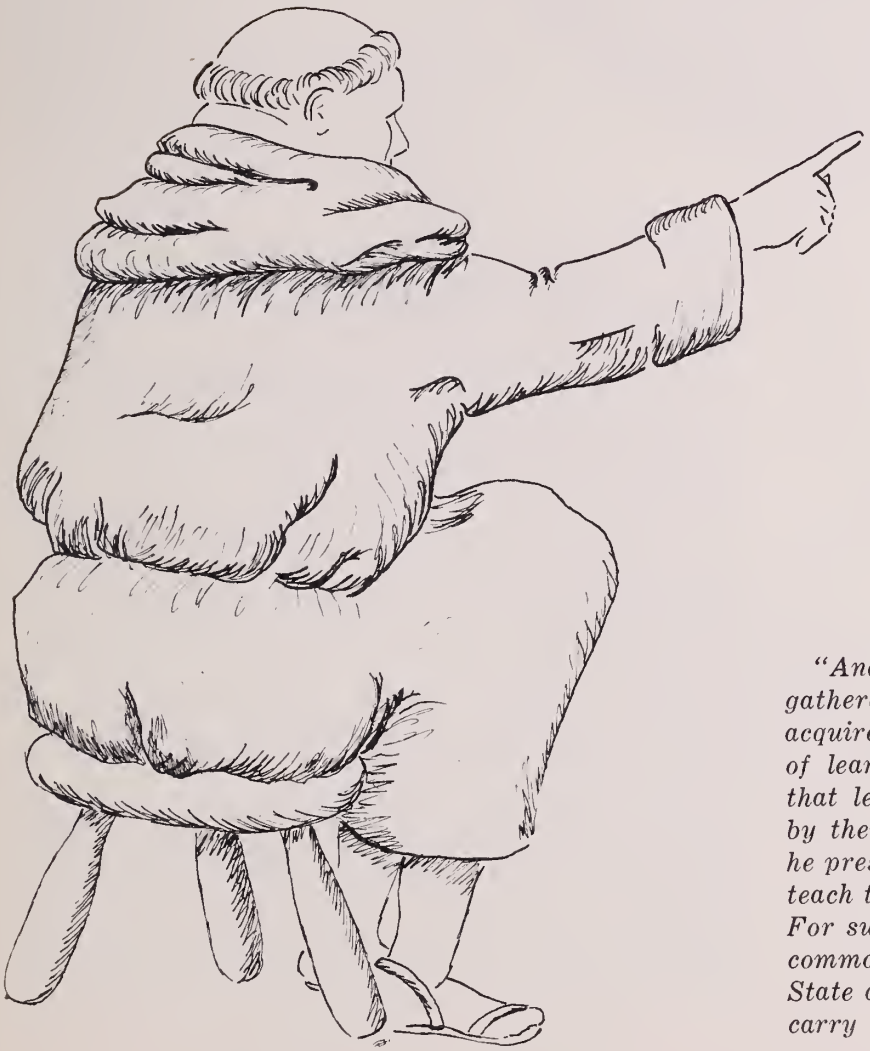
Second row: Mr. H. P. Strople, Mr. Lytton H. Gibson, Mr. John Sadtler, Mr. Bernard Russell, Mr. Frank Acosta.

Few corporate or executive bodies have a greater responsibility to the public than the school board of a community. It must supervise the public school system and is held accountable for the education of the community's youth. The success of an educational program depends in great part upon the degree in which board members assume their duties and carry out their responsibilities.

Falls Church is fortunate in having a school board composed of members dedicated to the task of providing good schools for the education of Falls Church young people. Not only are the board members interested in providing good schools, but they seek to accomplish this goal by giving amply of their time, effort and wisdom.

Those Who Guide Us In Our Quest

The Faculty



"And Godfrey had caused to be gathered about him those who had acquired knowledge in all branches of learning and conduct in order that less privileged might benefit by their presence. And over these he presided and instructed them to teach the lesser and more youthful. For such, he realized, was for the common weal and the good of the State and would better fit them to carry on crusade."

University of Richmond

Although this is Mr. Mahoney's first year as principal of George Mason, his friendliness, his interest and participation in school activities and his willingness to devote time and energy to the task of making George Mason a better school have earned him the respect of the students, as well as the faculty.

The Administration

With an almost uncanny ability to see through alibis and excuses, and with a ready humor for any situation, Dr. Edwards, the assistant principal, is a combination of brisk efficiency and precise attractiveness. Her discerning nature is a school asset in managing student affairs and administrating school activities.

Guidance

Whether the student's problem is large or small, the guidance department always has the welcome sign out to any student of George Mason seeking advice or counsel. Even though the office space is limited, there is a constant hum of activity in this busy place. Indeed this is not the limit to the activity, for these staff members leave their offices from time to time to test students in the cafeteria or the classrooms. When these staff members are not counseling, conducting conferences, testing students, mailing progress reports, preparing the honor roll, furnishing transcripts of grades, enrolling student transfers, or corresponding with colleges, they find time to prepare for a college day, a career day or the honors banquet.

Physical Education

Pericles once said of the Athenians, "They are lovers of wisdom without loss of manly vigor." George Mason is proud of its physical education program which has endeavored to furnish the complement, vigor—or physical development, to the intellectual quest of the student. However, this is but a part of the physical education goal. Its teachers strive to communicate to the student rules of good health, to impart a knowledge of the human body and its functions, and to engender a spirit of sportsmanship in all game competitions.

Visual aids are used by Mrs. Lanier in her health education class in teaching the human anatomy.

Mr. McClellan's world history class uses the maps to locate countries they have been studying.

Social Studies

The aim of the social studies program is to create an appreciation and understanding of man's heritage as reflected in the study of history; to stimulate an interest and understanding of the American system of government; and to give an insight of man—his environment and his culture.

Languages

The teachers of languages at George Mason are aware of the importance of the language program and have intensified the course of study this year in order to keep pace with a changing world. Language barriers have no place among nations — particularly nations that are dependent upon one another in their economic, cultural and political growth. The language teachers have the responsibility of imparting basic language skills that may be the foundation for future mastery of the language. In addition the teachers acquaint the students with the customs and cultures of the countries whose native language is being taught in the classroom.

Students in Mrs. Quam's Latin classes often find themselves in circles, literally, for she discovers this method of learning is very effective, since students can help one another.

English

The most popular subject at George Mason may not be English; but at least, every student takes English. This is one of the reasons that English teachers are busy teachers. Their duties are many and diversified, for they must develop student skills in composition, grammer, literature, spelling, word recognition and oral expression. That their efforts do not go unrewarded is evidenced in the recent successes in the literary contests, forensic contests and the quality of the school newspaper and magazine.

Science and Mathematics

Someone has said that a teacher affects eternity. Today, in the age of Sputniks, it might be more truthful to say that science and mathematics teachers affect eternity, for upon their shoulders rests the gravest of responsibility. Much of America's future is in their hands. How well they meet today's challenge is one indication of the success of the school program. George Mason has attempted to meet the challenge by offering additional courses in these subjects. Futhermore, many of the teachers of these subjects have attempted to meet the challenge by self-improvement through attendance at summer workshops sponsored by the federal government. The 1959 Science Fair was an indication of the strides made in these areas.

The Arts

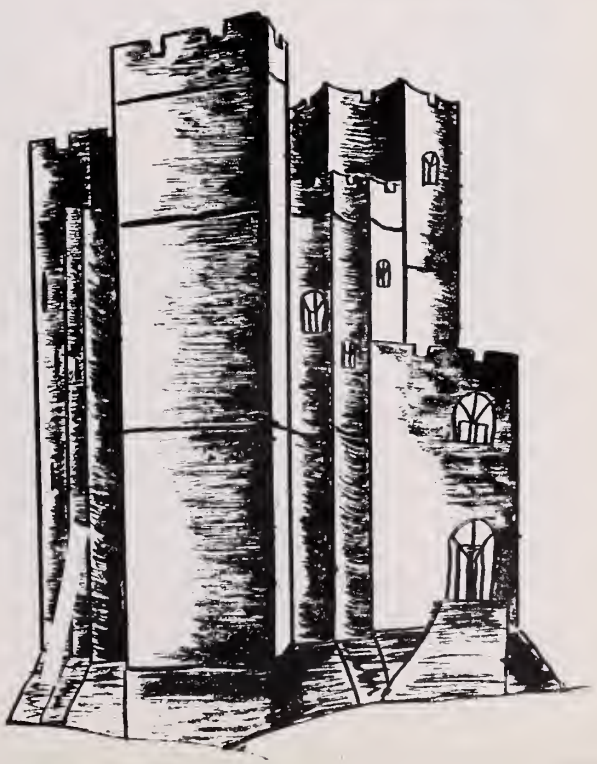
The strictly academic course of study would be a dull bill-of-fare indeed were it not for the offerings of the courses which are represented on these pages. These courses furnish the student with a cultural enrichment that is essential to his high school education. Although mastery in the arts represented here is sought, the basic aims are to develop an appreciation and understanding of these arts as well as skills in the participation in them. Closely allied with the classroom activities are the following co-curricular functions that are an outgrowth of the classroom activities: woodwork and metalcraft exhibitions, art exhibitions, homemaking exhibitions, vocal and instrumental concerts (four concerts were presented this school year), art work for school publications and scenic art design for plays and social functions.



The Knights

The Senior Class

"And after the keeping of the vigil, he again went in the chapter and kneeling down, he was asked three times if he still desired to enter the order, and replying in the affirmative, the Master of the Temple took the sword and laid it three times on his shoulder, saying as he did so, 'In the name of God, St. Michael and St. George, I make thee knight,' and admitted him to the vows, and pledged him in body, honour, and estate, to defend his brothers-in-arms as he himself would henceforth be defended."

A Day In The Life Of A

Bud rises early every school day. He says that doing this gives him an opportunity to do any homework he may have failed to do. He manages to read the sports page of the paper at the breakfast table between bites of his favorite cereal, corn flakes.

"It may not be a Cadillac, but it's mine and it's paid for," comments Bud about his 1952 Oldsmobile. Bud does all the repair work needed on his car. Here, as usual, we see him leaving for school a few minutes after eight o'clock in the morning.

Bud, like some other G M students, brings his lunch to school. He eats with the other students in the cafeteria and supplements his meal with milk that he purchases from the cafeteria.

Bud and other seniors in the sixth period physics class, watch Mr. Jawish solve a physics problem that had the class "stumped".

Typical Senior

Bud Roeder

Bud, who is president of the school body, presides at one of the regularly scheduled Wednesday student council meetings.

After arriving home from school at four o'clock in the afternoon, Bud usually starts working on his homework before dinner since his evening time may be taken up with activities at the school.

Bud finds that his best time for relaxation is after the evening meal. And what better way to relax than with a sports magazine to read. It goes without saying that he is an avid sports fan. At school he participates in track—the 100 yard and 220 yard dash being his specialty.

Home from school again at nine forty-five p.m., Bud re-reads a letter he received in the days mail—a letter postmarked "Richmond". Before turning-in for the night, he answers the letter and walks to the mailbox to post the letter so that it will go out on the early morning mail pickup.

One of the student council projects this year was to paint the public address booth. Here, we see Bud and Penny Coleman hard at work on this project. The project was completed during the evening.

Nothing seems quite so final for these seniors as they prepare themselves for the exercise that culminates years of hard work.

Senior Class Activity In 1959-1960

The Senior Class of 1960 can best be described as an active class—active in scholastic achievement, for their academic record has been good, and active in co-curricular activities and school social functions.

During this school year the class's outstanding achievement has been in the field of contributions. The biggest contribution they made was perhaps the one hundred and ten dollars taken from class funds that they sent to CARE. In addition another check was sent to the American Field Service to help out in the student exchange program. Not to be outdone by other classes in the school, they were the high contributors in the Christmas food drive for needy families. As other senior classes have done in past years, they left an appropriate gift to the school before being graduated.

The main class activity during the school year was the planning and execution of the homecoming day, which began with a parade and ended with a waltz. Furthermore, they presented an entertaining class night program in the spring.

The Senior Class of 1960 has had a full and rewarding year—a year which, at the end, finds George Mason a better school than when the year began.

Class ring and Adrianna get together. Laura Carlo, Senior Class President, fits Adrianna Sica, George Mason's exchange student, for her class ring.

"My golden spurs now bring to me,
And bring to me my richest mail,
For tomorrow I go over land and sea
In search of the Holy Grail.
Shall never a bed for me be spread,
Nor shall a pillow be under my head,
Till I begin my vow to keep."

The Warrior

Sophomore Class

"Then took Griflet his horse in great haste, and dressed his shield and took a spear in hand, and so he rode a great wallop till he came to a fountain, and thereby he saw a rich pavilion, and fair horse well saddled and bridled, and on a tree a shield of divers colors and a great spear. Then Griflet smote on the shield with the butt of his spear, that the shield fell down to the ground.

"With that the knight came out of the pavilion, and said, 'Fair knight, why smote ye down my shield?'

"For I will joust with you,' said Griflet."

The Squire

Freshman Class

"With him there was his son, a youthful squire;
To be a Knight was now his heart's desire
He tried to train his hair to curliness!
Of twenty years of age, he was, I guess,
And singularly quick, and very strong.
In France and Flanders he had served full long,
And valiant him, considering his years.
He wore the latest clothes the gown indeed,
Quite short, and all embroidered like a mead,
He played the flute or sang the lifelong day.
A well trained squire, one skilled in horsemanship."

The Page

"When he had overtaken the damosel, anon she said, 'What dost thou here? Thou stinkest all of the kitchen, thy clothes be bawdy of the grease and tallow that thou gainest in the kitchen; therefore turn again, bawdy kitchen page, I know thee well, for Sir Kay named thee Beaumains. What art thou but a lusk and a turner of broaches and a ladle-washer?'

'Damosel,' said Beaumains ,'say to me what you will, I will not go from you whatsomever ye say.'"

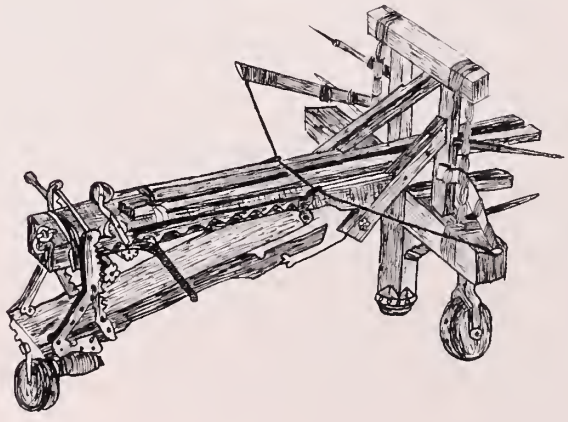
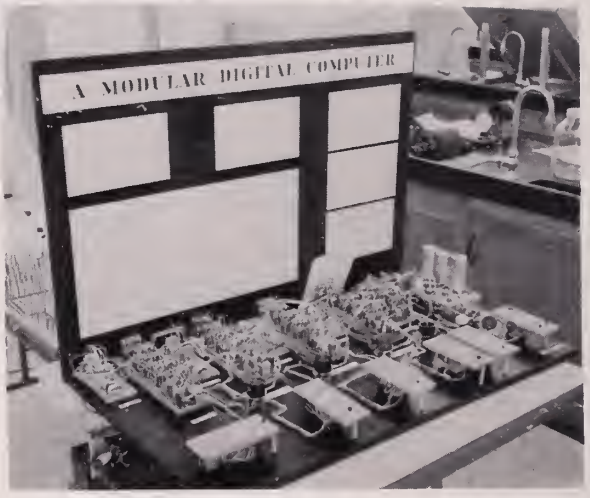
1959 Science Fair

The Science Fair is a program essentially designed to familiarize pupils with the problems of today's research. It inspires scientifically minded students to experiment and to explore the many facets of the physical and natural sciences.

Every year George Mason sponsors a Science Fair program, displaying projects by its students, which are judged by prominent scientists in the area. The winners enter the Science Fair in Arlington, and the top projects from there are entered in the National Science Fair.





Phil Glaser's computer took second place in the G.M. Science Fair.

The purpose of the S.C.A. is to co-ordinate all phases of school life and to achieve a functioning democratic organization. The S.C.A. edits the school directory, maintains the student parking lot, supervises the honor study hall, and maintains the S.C.A. bulletin. One of their projects at the beginning of the year was to paint the public address booth.

KEYETTE

The Keyette Club is another of George Mason's fine service organizations. Each year the group sponsors some needy Falls Church family. This year they have sponsored a party for the handicapped children of the Falls Church area. Each year a $100 scholarship is awarded to some deserving senior Keyette, and a $10 scholarship service medal is awarded to a senior girl who has distinguished herself by serving others.

The Lasso is George Mason's school newspaper. This publication keeps the student body informed about all school activities. The sports page, "The Senior Spotlight," and "The T. J. Tattler" are important features present in every issue.

Quill And Scroll

The Quill and Scroll is George Mason's newest organization. The group depicted here represents the charter membership of the international honorary society for high school journalists. To qualify for membership in the Quill and Scroll, a student must, not only have faithfully served on a student publication, but also have a high scholastic record of achievement. Membership is open to junior and senior students only. Mrs. Hutchins sponsors this group.

Future Homemakers Of America

The F.H.A. includes those girls who are especially interested in better homemaking. Mrs. Hardy, the sponsor, teaches the girls just that. The F.H.A., a national organization of pupils studying homemaking, is the club at G. M. H. S. that does much of the "behind-the-scenes" work —arranging for and serving at banquets, teas, and receptions—activities which provide social as well as educational experiences for the girls. The F.H.A. sponsors the Christmas faculty party, The May Day Program and the Baccalaureate reception.

The purpose of the F.N.A. is to interest students in the career of nursing. Every year the members work with victims of cerebral palsy at the Cerebral Palsy School. This year the members plan to visit various hospitals and to invite speakers from area hospitals to the club to speak. An assembly program dealing with the habit of smoking was given by the club this year.

The F.T.A.'s purpose is to create an interest in teaching and other related professions. This organization is one of the most active and dedicated groups at G. M. H. S. In addition to a well planned program of interesting activities and meetings, the group plans to visit a teacher's college this year. The group observed a special class of eight deaf children in an Arlington school which was taught by their former sponsor, Mrs. Cromer. A tea to honor the faculty was given in December.

And a rich throne, as bright as sunny day,
On which there sate most brave embellished
With royall robes and gorgeous array,
A mayden Queene, that shone as Titans ray,

Yet her bright blazing beautie did assay
To dim the brightnesse of her glorious throne."

Adrianna Sica
G.M.'s exchange student

My home is in Milan, Italy, located on the fertile plains of Lombary. Milan—an industrial and cultural city set apart from other Italian cities such as Rome, Venice, and Naples, by its modern appearance—is perhaps best known by its cathedral, The Milan Cathedral; its opera house, the Scala Theater; and its art, daVinci's "The Last Supper."

I came from a middle class home, and my father is a doctor. I attended a typical lyceum school before coming to the United States as an A.F.S. exchange student. My special interest in school is the study of literature. Out of school, my interests and activities are devoted to outdoor pursuits such as swimming, ice skating and skiing.

I am especially fond of my American family, Mr. and Mrs. Tharp. The many friends I have made and the wonderful impressions and memories I have of the United States are, and will be, a source of pleasure to me.

Randy Kahn

Last summer I was sent as an A. F. S. exchange student to the Netherlands, the land of dikes and windmills. I lived and worked and played with my two Dutch families; teaching and learning, giving and taking, and receiving invaluable glimpses of the ways of Europe and Europeans. The world seemed to widen and heighten, and I discovered that it is filled with wonderful and generous people.

"Then thought Sir Launcelot for to help these the weaker party in increasing of his chivalry. And so Sir Launcelot thrust in among the party of the castle, and smote down a knight, horse and man, to earth. And then he rashed here and there, and did marvellous deeds of arms. And then he drew out his sword, and struck many knights to the earth, so that all those that saw him marvelled that ever one knight might do so great deeds of arms."

Sir Thomas Malory

Despite its somewhat mediocre record, we at George Mason feel that the 1959 Mustang squad was much better than its record shows. The squad, which was smaller than usual, was greatly hampered by injuries as well as by very bad weather. Despite these problems, the spirit of the team, as well as that of the student body, never failed. Of the four losses the Mustangs suffered, only one was to a league team, and they were runners up to Herndon, the league champions.

The Mustangs opened the season in nearly perfect weather, with two spectacular victories over Gar-Field, 54-0, and Cedar-Lee, 53-0. The next two games, the first against a new opponent, Stafford, and the second against Group I Osbourn, saw the Mustangs lose two hard fought contests. The last game of the season to be played in good weather saw the injury-ridden but game Mustangs win a thrilling victory from Loudoun County.

...And Bad Weather...

The last three games of the season were played under such adverse conditions that it was often hard to tell which team was which. In the first of these games the Mustangs lost a heartbreaker to D. J. O'Connell at night, (6-0), after having three touchdowns called back. The next week saw the Mustangs lose another close game to League Champion Herndon, due to fumbles at crucial points. In the final game of the season, the Mustangs stormed back to beat Marshall 28-0 and to even their record with 4 wins, 4 losses.

Mustangs Win District Championship...

The Mustang basketball team, although off to a slow start, caught fire at the end of the season and won the district tournament, and thus emerged as Group II District 9 Basketball Champions. The early games of the season saw the Mustang five lose several thrilling, hard-fought games by one point margins; but, as the season advanced, the team became progressively stronger and began sweeping by all opposition. As the tournament came nearer, and it became obvious that the Mustangs would gain a berth in the tournament, school spirit and excitement rose to an all time high. Both tournament games saw overflowing crowds cheer the fighting Mustangs as they swept by Loudoun County and Nokesville. The following week-end saw the Mustangs play Varina in the regional tournament and lose despite a game effort to defeat the much taller down-state team.

Tournament Highlights

The Group II District 9 Tournament, held at George Mason this year, was a tremendous success, especially since our own Mustangs emerged as champions. The Mustangs, who went into the tournament in a tie for third place in regular season play, met Loudoun County in the semi-finals and defeated them 49-45. In the finals the Mustangs met Nokesville, and before a screaming, overflowing crowd, defeated them 51-47, thus bringing the district crown to G.M.

Girls Win District Crown

The girls, like the boys' team, won the district tournament and therefore won the Group II District 9 title. The girls had a fine season, losing only three games, two of which they lost to Marshall, whom they eventually defeated in the finals of the tournament. In the first game the girls breezed by Rappahannock 46-39, and in the finals won an exciting contest from the regular season champions, Marshall, by one point (39-38) ; thus climaxing one of the girls' most successful season.
